KNOWLEDGE TO SIP ON

During the days of Prohibition, our building, which was formerly the Ambassador Inn became a speakeasy, with gambling on the second floor. A little cottage to the rear of the building would receive contraband liquor through moveable porches that would swing open when liquor was delivered by car under cover of night. Behind the swinging porches is where the liquor would be stored. The little cottage still sits in the back although it no longer has swinging porches.
